THE INTERNATIONAL MAJOR MEDICAL PLAN

WHY DO YOU NEED THE INTERNATIONAL MAJOR MEDICAL PLAN?

Health care costs are different in the United States than other countries around the world. The United States health care system is principally funded through private insurance. Access to socialized health care are typically restricted to United States Veterans, Medicare recipients and legal residents using Medicaid.

Reciprocity between some countries which both have socialized health care does not occur in the United States.

There are three basic types of people who need The Original International Major Medical plan:

1) The Foreign National visiting or temporarily residing in the USA

A trip, regardless of business or pleasure, can be ruined by an unexpected health problem.

Although this plan cannot prevent an accident or sickness from occurring, it can pay for the majority of expenses which will occur.

2) The Returning United States Resident

A United States citizen or permanent resident who has been residing outside of the United States for an extended period of time, will discover that all traditional medical plans will require a period of residency in the USA for 6 months to 5 years, before they will become eligible for medical insurance.

The Original International Major Medical plan can provide the temporary coverage needed until you become eligible for permanent medical insurance.

3) The Non-USA citizen working for a USA company, even in another country

USA companies many times employ citizens from all over the world. Many USA companies want to offer all employees various benefits including medical insurance.

The Original International Major Medical plan can offer coverage to non-USA citizens who are working for a USA company, even in his or her home country.

The Original International Major Medical plan provides needed medical coverage for only a few dollars a day regardless of if you need coverage for a few days or a few years.
